

Rakesh Swarnakar

My name is Rakesh Swarnakar and I am from Nepal. This is my sophomore year at Washburn, majoring in Computer Information Science and mathematics: Applied Statistics. I have always been fond of numbers and technology which is why from a very young age I knew what I wanted to study. I love meeting with new people and exploring the cultures and traditions of different countries around the world which is why I got interested in becoming a PAIS. Apart from that, I like cooking and listening to music(both at the same time, even better). I have discovered many things past 1 here at the stated. I got to learn exciting stuff about American college life. At first, it was a little hard for me because I was completely in a different environment than I was used to from back home in Nepal, but the people at Washburn made it much easier for me to adapt to the states.
